

PRIVACY POLICY

CANADIAN BAPTISTS OF WESTERN CANADA

BAPTIST UNION OF WESTERN CANADA

("CWBC", "us" "we")

Statement of Commitment

To safeguard the personal information entrusted to us and to comply with the Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act and any other applicable legislation, we are committed to the following principles:

1. Accountability
2. Identifying purposes
3. Consent
4. Limiting collection
5. Limiting use, disclosure, and retention
6. Accuracy
7. Safeguards
8. Openness
9. Individual access
10. Challenging compliance

"Personal information" means information about an identifiable individual, but does not include the name, title, business address and business telephone number of an employee of an organization.

These principles are reflected in our Privacy Policy.

The CBWC, including its directors, officers, employees and volunteers are required to comply with these principles and the Policy and will be given restricted access to personal information solely to perform the services provided by us.

Other persons or organizations who act for, or on behalf of, the CBWC are also required to comply with the principles and the Policy and will be given restricted access to personal information solely to perform the services provided for us.

Any inquiry, request or concern related to privacy matters should be made in writing to the following:

Personal Information Compliance Officer

Canadian Baptists of Western Canada

#201 - 221 10th Avenue SE Calgary, AB T2G 0V9

A printed copy of the Policy may be requested by mail or e-mail at the above address.

Privacy Policy

Collection and Use of Personal Information

From time to time, we collect a wide range of personal information about identifiable individuals for the purpose of providing our services to our member churches and to individuals and through our fund raising efforts. When we collect such personal information any member of our team may be provided access to such personal information either physically or electronically. Members of our team include our management team, our employees and any contracted persons retained by the CBWC. We have committed considerable resources to ensure that each employee and volunteer understands and respects your personal information and that they will not use or disclose your personal information except in accordance with this Privacy Policy. Every contracted person has signed a Confidentiality Agreement with the CBWC to ensure that your personal information is used only for the purpose of providing the CBWC's services and each contracted person is prohibited from disclosing your personal information to any third person without acquiring your further specific consent to do so.

The CBWC may also use "cookies" and similar technology to obtain information about your visits to our sites and your responses to e-mail from us. While "cookies" help us improve your experience while visiting our sites by allowing us to customize our communications to the services you may desire, you have the option of blocking the "cookies" through your Internet browser or other commercially available software but this may make some of our site's features unavailable to you.

Protection of Personal Information

Most of your personal information is kept electronically but it could be printed at some point(s) in time. Your printed personal information will be kept under lock and key with restricted access to the office in which it is located or if it is being electronically held, it will be password protected with only those who "need to know" having access to such password. We also use encryption, firewalls and other technology and security procedures to help protect the security of your personal information and to prevent unauthorized collection, use or disclosure of your personal information by other persons.

Disclosure of Personal Information

Our computer technology group does have access to all electronically held documents but all members of the computer technology group have signed confidentiality agreements that prevent them from disclosing any personal or other information to any other person without our prior written consent which consent we will not provide without your prior consent. We may disclose your personal information to third parties on a "need to know" basis with the clear understanding that the personal information is provided under the terms of the Confidentiality Agreement executed by that third party in favour of the CBWC. Like most enterprises today, we may use vendors to carry out certain functions in marketing and delivering services to you and we share online data with those vendors to the extent necessary for them to perform their work. Delivery of such information is provided under written agreement which includes a duty of confidentiality on the part of the service provider. The CBWC may also share your personal information with other industry and credit-related organizations when necessary to improve operations and to protect against fraud, security and credit risks. The CBWC does not share, disclose or sell any of your personal information with other unaffiliated companies or organizations without your prior consent.

Retention and Destruction of Personal Information

Canada Revenue Agency requires that we retain our financial information for a minimum of seven years and accordingly, should our financial information include your personal information, your personal information could be held by us for a minimum of seven years. Your closed file(s) will be kept either on site or in off-site storage facilities where disclosure of their contents is limited to the CBWC and its agents only. When we destroy file(s) (whether printed or electronic), we will undertake such destruction in a manner that will eliminate or at least minimize the risks of any personal information being disclosed to any unauthorized person.

Right to Access and Correct

You can review your personal information on reasonable notice, during regular business hours by making that request of the Personal Information Compliance Officer. You have the right to request a correction be made to your personal information. The President of the CBWC or his or her chosen alternative within CBWC will determine whether that correction should be made or how it should be dealt with within 30 days of the request for correction having been first made to the Personal Information Compliance Officer. You can make an inquiry or complaint directly to the Personal Information Compliance Officer at any time, in writing. Our Personal Information Compliance Officer can be contacted at 1 (800) 820-2479, or by mail at Canadian Baptists of Western Canada #201 - 221 10th Avenue SE Calgary, AB T2G 0V9.

Appeal Process

In the event that you are not satisfied with the outcome of your request, decision or interaction with the Personal Information Compliance Officer you have a right to appeal to the President of the CBWC. To appeal to the President you need only provide written notice of your request for an appeal to the Personal Information Compliance Officer and the Personal Information Compliance Officer is required to forward to the same to the President at which point you will receive a further communication from the CBWC regarding whether a meeting or written reply will be provided to you in relation to the issue.

Changes to Privacy Policy

Our privacy policy may change from time to time and those changes will be recorded in this document and be published on our website.

Employee and Volunteer Privacy Policy

Reasonable Collection and Use of Personal Information

The CBWC will collect from its employees and volunteers and use only such personal information as is reasonably necessary for the identified purpose that will be stated (either orally or in writing) at or prior to the time of collection of the personal information.

Type of Personal Information Collected

We confirm that at this point in time, we have collected and will continue to collect personal information on our employees and volunteers relating to, among other things: their past endeavors as relayed to us in the employee's or volunteer's resume or as disclosed to us by the employee's or volunteer's reference(s) or in the employee's or volunteer's initial interview(s); results of psychometric testing; bank account information, job performance; salary; dependents and health benefit information.

Use, Retention and Disclosure of Personal Information

The use and disclosure of the personal information will be limited to the purpose for which it was collected. If information is to be used or disclosed for a new purpose, consent to the new purpose will be obtained orally or where we find it advisable, in writing, from you. We will retain your personal information during the course of having you provide services to the CBWC and for a minimum of one year thereafter. The CBWC reserves the right to determine exactly when to destroy the personal information after the one year period but, the personal information when destroyed will be destroyed in such a fashion so as to minimize the risk of its disclosure to any unauthorized person.

Our employees' and volunteers' personal information will be provided to the persons responsible for human resources for the CBWC as well as management of the CBWC and to such other persons within the CBWC that, in the opinion of the human resource personnel and management of the CBWC, are required to have the personal information in order to carry out the purpose for which it was collected. We will also disclose the personal information to any benefit provider that is engaged by the CBWC for the purpose of allowing the benefit provider to provide the benefits to the employee. The results of psychometric tests are typically shared among our personnel to encourage an understanding of each co-worker's common characteristics.

Oversight and Redress

Each employee and volunteer has the responsibility to ensure that any changes in personal information including home addresses or unlisted telephone numbers are provided to us within seven days of the change having been effected.

Protection of Personal Information

Each employee's and volunteer's personal information will be either password protected if kept electronically or kept under lock and key if retained in a paper format.

The Personal Information Compliance Officer-Right to Review and Correct

You can review your personal information on reasonable notice, during regular business hours by making that request of the Personal Information Compliance Officer. You have the right to request a correction be made to your personal information. The CBWC will determine whether that correction should be made or how it should be dealt with within 30 days of the request for correction having been first made to the Personal Information Compliance Officer. You can make an inquiry or complaint directly to the Personal Information Compliance Officer at any time, in writing.

Appeal Process

In the event that you are not satisfied with the outcome of your request, decision or interaction with the Personal Information Compliance Officer you have a right to appeal to the President of the CBWC. To appeal to the President, you need only provide written notice of your request for an appeal to the Personal Information Compliance Officer and the Personal Information

Compliance Officer is required to forward to the same to the President at which point you will receive a further communication from the CBWC regarding whether a meeting or written reply will be provided to you in relation to the issue.

Changes to Privacy Policy

Our privacy policy may change from time to time and those changes will be recorded in this document and be published on our website.
